Cybersecurity Incident Update

October 6, 2026

As disclosed on September 16, 2026, in a Material Event report, FORUS S.A. ("FORUS" or the "Company") became aware on September 15 that certain IT systems were affected by a cybersecurity incident (the "incident") caused by an external threat actor. FORUS immediately activated its prevention, detection, and response plans and protocols, with the assistance of cybersecurity and digital forensics experts. As part of this response, the Company initiated processes to identify and isolate compromised IT systems while concurrently implementing contingency operations to maintain business continuity and mitigate the impact on sales in Chile.

Although our stores have remained open and operational throughout this period, the incident caused disruptions to certain logistics and distribution operations, resulting in store replenishment delays, as well as disruptions across our digital and wholesale channels. Since the incident, the Company has been systematically restoring affected functions, making significant progress that has enabled FORUS to progressively regularize operations and participate in the ongoing Cyber Day event.

As of this date, we are not yet able to precisely quantify the financial impact of the incident on FORUS's assets, liabilities, or operating results. This information will be duly disclosed to the Financial Market Commission (CMF) and the market at large in a timely manner once available.

Finally, we are deeply grateful for the understanding and support shown by our customers, colleagues, partners, and suppliers. We are working tirelessly to continue delivering the best possible experience to our customers.
