LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Puma Biotechnology, Inc. (NYSE: PBYI) ("Puma" or the "Company") today announced that ISS, the leading independent proxy advisory firm, recommends that Puma shareholders revoke all consents on the BLUE Consent Revocation Card thereby rejecting the consent solicitation by Fredric Eshelman, who owns less than 1.0% of the Company's shares.

In its December 22, 2015 report, ISS concluded*:

"Shareholder support for a dissident campaign that rapidly evolved from a request for information to an urgent consent solicitation demands an argument significantly more compelling than the case presented thus far. In light of Puma's recent board additions and the fact that the company is currently in a critical stage of its strategic plan, a change to the board composition - particularly a near-doubling of the current board size - does not appear prudent at this stage. As such, shareholders should support the board's request to REVOKE CONSENT."

"We welcome the support of ISS," said Alan H. Auerbach, Chief Executive Officer and President of Puma. "This recommendation reaffirms our strong belief that Puma's board is best positioned to build value for all of Puma's shareholders. Eshelman's actions are not in the best interests of Puma's shareholders. We are thankful for all of the continued support we have received from our shareholders."

The Company urges shareholders to show support for their Company by signing, dating and returning their BLUE Consent Revocation Card today. Company shareholders are reminded that their revocation is important, no matter how many or how few shares they own. Shareholders who have questions or need any assistance revoking their consents may contact Innisfree M&A Incorporated, which is assisting the Company in this matter, toll-free at (888) 750-5834 or (212) 750-5833.
