

ResMed Software Leader Speaking at Connected Health Summit

BOSTON - October 25, 2017 - Amy Cook, ResMed director of Healthcare Informatics, is speaking today at the Connected Health Summit in Boston.

The connected care event highlights “health technologies as part of the Internet of Things (IoT) phenomenon and the transformational impact of these connected solutions on the U.S. healthcare system.”

Cook will speak on a panel, “Sleep Tech and Smart Home: Is Smart Bedroom the Next Opportunity?” from 4:00–5:00pm ET at the Seaport World Trade Center (Room Waterfront One). It focuses on how and why sleep tracking technology should be integrated into a smart home experience.

Cook, recently named one of “110 Women to Know in Medtech” by Becker's Hospital Review, will be joined by:

- Moderator: Jennifer Kent, Director, Research Quality & Product Development, Parks Associates
- Melissa Barra, Chief Strategy & Customer Relationship Officer, Select Comfort
- Jeff Patton, GM, Connected Home Product Management & Innovation, GE Lighting
- Dr. Roy Raymann, Vice President, Sleep Science & Scientific Affairs, SleepScore Labs
- Dean Tucker, Vice President of Sales, Emfit

Follow @ResMed on Twitter.

#

<https://newsroom.resmed.com/news-releases?item=122749>