RESTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--MAXIMUS (NYSE: MMS), a leading provider of government services worldwide, is proud to report that its subsidiary, DeltaWare Systems (DeltaWare), has been recognized as one of Canada's Top Employers for Young People 2010. This marks the third human resources distinction DeltaWare has received this year, having also been named one of Canada's Top 100 Employers and Atlantic Canada's Top Employers.

DeltaWare, which was acquired by MAXIMUS earlier this year, was the only Prince Edward-based company to be recognized for this award and was specifically commended by the review committee for excellence in a number of areas, including its:

- Employee sports teams
- Co-op and summer programs designed for university students
- Professional and interpersonal mentoring
- Generous vacation allowance and flexible work hours
- On-campus recruitment programming
- Tuition and professional accreditation subsidization programs
- A lively calendar of organized social events for young employees

Published annually since 2001, the Canada's Top Employers for Young People competition is administered by the editors of Canada's Top 100 Employers. This award is designed to recognize those employers that offer the best benefits for young workers and lead in attracting and retaining younger employees through career management and advancement programs.

"While we pride ourselves on being an exemplary employer, we are particularly proud of this award because it indicates a commitment to employees at all levels," commented DeltaWare founder and CEO Ed Lawlor. "Here at DeltaWare, we recognize the importance of our youngest employees in driving the company toward future success."

Richard Montoni, President and CEO of MAXIMUS, expressed similar sentiments. "We believe our employees are our greatest asset, and I am glad to see that belief reflected in the recognition of DeltaWare as a top employer. As we continue to grow and expand, our employees play a critical role in our success."
