

Our Code of Conduct

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR STAKEHOLDERS

Our Code of Conduct reflects our belief that as important as what we do is how we do it. Our operations produce gold that serves as a store of wealth for investors, and copper, silver, zinc, and lead that are building blocks of modern living – and we seek to produce these metals in a responsible way.

Our workforce uses innovative processes and technology to make our operations safe and efficient – and to live up to leading social and environmental standards so that we make a positive difference to economies and communities wherever we work.

Our Code of Conduct is the compass that guides the way we work. It requires us to demonstrate our values – safety, integrity, sustainability, inclusion and responsibility – in every aspect of our professional lives and ultimately, to live up to our purpose, which is to create value and improve lives through sustainable and responsible mining.

Everyone who is part of the Newmont Goldcorp team is expected to live our values, and live up to our Code of Conduct. Against a shifting geopolitical and technological backdrop, it is critical that our values and principles remain constant. We are honored to lead this team, and to work together to make Newmont Goldcorp the most profitable and responsible gold mining company in the world.

Sincerely,

Tom Palmer
President and Chief Executive Officer

Noreen Doyle
Board of Directors, Independent Chair

OVERVIEW OF OUR CODE

Newmont Goldcorp's Code of Conduct sets out threshold expectations of behavior for Newmont Goldcorp employees, officers and directors, and for our business partners, vendors and contractors when they are working with us or on our behalf. These expectations should be visible at all times to our co-workers, host communities and governments, shareholders, and other individuals and groups whose opinions influence our success. Collectively, these are our stakeholders.

The Code expresses Newmont's expectations in general terms. It does not address every situation that may arise. If you find yourself in a situation that presents a difficult ethical decision and you cannot find the guidance you need here, or in any of the Policies, Standards, Procedures, or other supporting documents that Newmont has adopted, you should ask your manager or your regional Site Compliance Manager or Ethics Advocate, or ask a question through the Ethics Solutions Tool, which can accept anonymous submissions. Our Code and Policies are publicly available through our website, and our Standards, Procedures, and Guidelines are available on the company's intranet or, for non-Newmont employees, through your Newmont contact person. While we reserve the right to modify these documents and expect our employees to be aware of changes, our commitment to the basic principles laid out here, including our policy against retaliation, will not waiver.

At Newmont Goldcorp, our expectation is that every employee and every contractor engaged on our behalf is individually accountable for our reputation for integrity. We also expect that managers will lead by example to set a tone for ethical behavior for all of their employees and that their doors will be open to employees with questions about ethics and compliance. All of the resources described here are designed to ensure that issues and questions can easily be raised and appropriately addressed, and that employees get answers.

While the Code includes a number of sections that relate to specific laws, most of the Code is based on good common sense and sound judgment. If you step back from a situation and ask yourself, "what's the right thing to do?" you will most often arrive at the right solution. It can also be useful to ask yourself: "how would I feel if my decision were featured on the front page of the newspaper?" or "would I be proud to explain my actions to my co-workers, family members and friends?"

Finally, in our global operations, local cultural norms sometimes conflict with Newmont's legal obligations, Code, Policies or Standards. When such a situation arises, please consult the resources listed above and the legal department. In these cases, Newmont's legal obligations, Code, Policies and Standards must control your conduct.

As a founding member of the Partnering Against Corruption Initiative, we prohibit corruption and we only use appropriate and lawful means when we engage with government officials, our partners and other stakeholders to act for the benefit of Newmont Goldcorp. Please see our Business Integrity Policy for more on this topic.
9. We behave honestly in the marketplace. We will not trade in Newmont Goldcorp stock or the stock of any other company based on material information that has not been disclosed to the public, and we will not disclose such information to others so that they may trade based on it. Please see our Business Integrity Policy for more on this topic.

10. We protect the value of Newmont Goldcorp's assets, including its physical assets, its information and data, and its good name and reputation. We follow applicable security and information technology standards to protect Newmont's physical assets and intellectual property from theft, loss, damage, or misuse. We safeguard Newmont's confidential information from unauthorized disclosure, changes or loss, and we uphold the value of Newmont's reputation and good name whenever we represent the company. Please see our Asset and Value Protection Policy for more on this topic.

11. We speak up when we see issues or have questions, and cooperate candidly in investigations. We communicate with our managers, our Site Compliance Managers, or our regional Ethics Advocate, or we report issues to the Ethics Solution Tool if we have questions about or feel that we are being pressured to violate our ethical responsibilities, or see others doing so. We also candidly cooperate in investigations regarding ethics and compliance matters and other company-related investigations. Please see our People Policy for more on this topic.

12. We support and protect those who speak-up. No employee will be retaliated against in any way for asking questions or voicing concerns about our legal or ethical obligations when acting in good faith. Please see our People Policy for more on this topic.

13. We are accountable for upholding the Code. Every Newmont employee, officer, director, partner, vendor, and contractor engaged on behalf of the company is accountable for complying with Newmont's Code, Policies, Standards,

Procedures, and Guidelines, and all local and national laws, and applicable regulations in all countries where Newmont does business. CODE ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Code, and any Policy, Standard, Procedure, Guideline, or other similar statement (either written or verbal), do not represent, and may not be interpreted as an employment contract or other legally binding agreement between Newmont (or any of its predecessors or subsidiaries) and any employee or any other person or entity. Similarly, no person or entity may claim to be a third party beneficiary of this Code or any Policy, Standard, Procedure, Guideline, or other similar statement (either written or verbal). Unless covered by a collective bargaining agreement or specific employment contract or inconsistent with applicable local law, employment with Newmont is at-will, which means that either the employee or Newmont may terminate the employment relationship at any time, with or without cause, justification or explanation to the other. Unless contrary to local law or a collective bargaining agreement, the at-will nature of any Newmont employee's individual employment relationship with Newmont can only be modified by contract through a written agreement signed by both the employee and either the Executive Vice President, Human Resources or the Chief Executive Officer. Moreover, unless expressly covered by a collective bargaining agreement or a specific employment contract or local law, no verbal or written statement by Newmont (or any employee or officer thereof) is a guarantee of any specific terms, conditions or duration of employment; instead, any terms, conditions or duration of an employee's relationship with the company may be modified or terminated at any time in the company's sole discretion.

Code Acknowledgement. I understand and agree that the statements contained in the Code of Conduct and in other company materials (including Policies, Standards, Procedures, Guidelines, and other similar statements (both written or verbal)) do not constitute a contractual commitment to continued employment or otherwise create any contractual obligation on the part of Newmont (or any of its predecessors or subsidiaries).

I also understand and agree that the Code of Conduct and other company materials (including Policies, Standards, Procedures, Guidelines, and other similar statements (both written and verbal)) do not constitute a promise of specific treatment in specific circumstances, but are expectations that may be changed by Newmont whenever in its judgment a change is necessary or appropriate, and I will abide by any such changes. Newmont's policy against retaliation for speaking up in good faith, however, will not be modified.

I have reviewed the Code of Conduct, or, to the extent I have not reviewed it, I accept responsibility for familiarizing myself with its contents. I will abide by the Code of Conduct, as well as any of the Policies, Standards, Procedures, Guidelines, and other similar statements that may govern my work for the company. I understand that I may discuss with my supervisor any questions or concerns about the Code of Conduct, or any of the Policies, Standards, Procedures, Guidelines and other similar statements that may govern my work for the company. Any questions I had regarding the Code; the Policies, Standards, Procedures, Guidelines, and other similar statements; and/or this Acknowledgement were answered to my satisfaction before I signed this Acknowledgement.

Waiver. This Code cannot be waived without appropriate approval. If you encounter a situation that you believe may require waiver of a provision of the Code, raise the issue promptly with your manager, your regional Site Compliance Manager or Ethics Advocate, or through a submission to the Ethics Solutions Tool. Directors and executive officers who seek a waiver should address the Board of Directors or a designated committee of the Board. Waivers for Directors and executive officers will be disclosed to the extent and in the manner required by law, regulation, or stock exchange listing standard.
