Guardian continues to expand their position in the senior housing sector and Kent will support the mission of providing the highest level of sophistication, experience, and value to residents. She will oversee existing independent living facilities, with a focus on expanding Guardian's presence in the senior housing sector by exploring new management contracts, acquisitions, and development projects in the coming years.

"Abbey's proven track record and commitment to excellence will be instrumental in enhancing our service offerings and strengthening our position as a leader in the senior housing market," said Tom Brenneke, President and CEO of Guardian. "We're confident that her contributions will lead to substantial growth and success in this area of our business."

Kent's experience in the senior housing industry is extensive. She held leadership positions in several organizations, including the Corporate Director of Operations and Marketing at Seasons Management where she oversaw operations and marketing for multiple senior housing communities. She also served as the Regional Vice President of Operations at Regency Pacific Management where her portfolio included senior living communities across several states.

"I'm thrilled at the opportunity to build a dedicated senior living practice at Guardian," Kent said. "With Guardian's existing infrastructure, there's a real opportunity for immediate growth."
