ECS Designated as Premier Partner for Google Cloud Platform

Leading cloud practice helps customers adopt, manage, and maximize use of Google Cloud Platform

FAIRFAX, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--ECS, a leading provider of advanced technology, science, and engineering solutions, was awarded Premier Partner status for Google Cloud Platform. To achieve the distinction, ECS’ cloud experts received extensive architecture training and certifications, met a rigorous set of technical criteria, and demonstrated strong expertise in working with customers building innovative solutions on Google Cloud Platform.

“Google is a key technology provider to global enterprises spanning consumer, public sector, and commercial markets,” said John Sankovich, vice president of cloud solutions at ECS. “Google’s engineering expertise enables a cloud platform that helps customers create intelligence from data and accelerate innovation in areas like application modernization, big data, machine learning and AI. ECS is proud to have reached Google Cloud’s highest level of Premier Partner status and to offer Google Cloud Platform to our customers as they continue their cloud adoption lifecycle.”

ECS offers cloud consulting, managed services, and full and direct resale access to all Google Cloud Platform services and regions worldwide through ECS’ Cloud Center of Excellence (CCoE). The ECS CCoE focuses on delivering cloud best practices to customers in commercial and public sector markets. ECS currently provides expert Google Cloud Platform solutions deploying mission-critical workloads to some of the largest organizations in the world.
