Dotloop Launches Product Integration with Lone Wolf Real Estate Technologies

Partnership allows users to sync critical data and improve day-to-day business efficiencies

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- Dotloop, a leading platform for simplifying the real estate buying and selling process, today launched a new data integration partnership with Lone Wolf Real Estate Technologies Inc. ("Lone Wolf"). The integration brings together the dotloop[®] Business+, Business, and Teams products and Lone Wolf's Complete Enterprise Solution, including its back office management solution, brokerWOLF.

With this integration, real estate brokers can seamlessly transfer their information directly to Lone Wolf's Complete Enterprise Solution, eliminating duplicate data entry and saving time while minimizing errors. Data such as transaction type, purchase price and commission can be transferred between the two platforms allowing data entered by dotloop users to be integrated into Lone Wolf solutions.

"We are excited to announce our integration partnership with Lone Wolf is live, allowing our mutual customers to further streamline their businesses," said Austin Allison, founder of dotloop. "While this is the beginning of what we hope to be a long relationship with Lone Wolf, we are most excited about the immediate impact that this integration will have for our customers who want to spend their time on peoplework[®] and not paperwork."
