Dotloop Mobile Now Available for Android

Now, dotloop users can connect with their clients and other service providers from either iOS or Android mobile platforms

CINCINNATI, June 17, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- Dotloop, a leading platform for simplifying the real estate buying and selling process, today announced its popular mobile application is now available for the Android™ platform. Users can download the app on Google Play™.

Dotloop for Android is designed to make real estate professionals more efficient by giving them a fast, streamlined way to manage their real estate transactions from anywhere. With dotloop for Android, users can manage their transactions by receiving real-time notifications on changes to their deal, sign documents with clients in person, or keep the transaction moving by sharing documents directly from their phone. It is available for free to all dotloop users.

"Real estate is an inherently mobile business, but agents have never been able to actually move their transactions forward with just a mobile device," said Austin Allison, dotloop founder and general manager. "With dotloop for Android and iOS®, agents are able to quickly and easily stay in tune with their transactions and ensure a smooth process for all parties involved from the palm of their hand, no matter what platform they use. We are dedicated to helping real estate agents reduce friction in the transaction process and this is an important part of that process."

New features of the app include:

- | Create a loop on the go from broker-provided templates.
- | Add documents from any device or service - including Dropbox™, Google Drive™, and Microsoft OneDrive™ - or from templates and email.
- | Easily add signature, initials, and other fields on the spot for faster turnaround.
- | Quickly collect signatures through a guided signing experience in-app, in person, or via the mobile web.
- | Stay in the know with push notifications when signing is required or when documents have been signed or shared with anyone in the loop.

In addition to the new Android application, dotloop's highly-rated free iOS application is available from the App Store®.
