November 07, 2017

The Only Compliance Solution Integrated with Microsoft Office Online To Deliver a Superior Collaborative Experience for Enhanced Accuracy

CHICAGO--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Donnelley Financial Solutions (NYSE:DFIN) announced today the release of ActiveDisclosure 3, the newest generation of its cloud-based financial disclosure management solution, ActiveDisclosureSM. ActiveDisclosure 3 brings teams together across departments, functions and geographies in real-time through a co-authoring, browser-enabled platform, designed to save time and ensure accuracy when dealing with fixed deadlines and shifting regulations. The only compliance solution integrating with Microsoft Office Online, ActiveDisclosure 3 allows multiple users to simultaneously create and edit their Word, Excel and PowerPoint documents from most devices.

"ActiveDisclosure 3 is a true game changer in the world of financial reporting," said Craig Clay, President of Global Capital Markets, Donnelley Financial Solutions. "By harnessing the power of Microsoft Office Online, clients now have unfettered, real-time visibility to changes or edits being made to their documents by other team members – from anywhere. This comprehensive line of sight better positions our clients to deliver on their accuracy and efficiency objectives."

"Users find ActiveDisclosure 3 extremely intuitive. They are rapidly embracing the ability to edit Microsoft Word, Excel, and PowerPoint documents right in the browser, just like they can in Office 365," added Darren Peterson, Senior Vice President of Product Management, Donnelley Financial Solutions. "While the Office desktop applications are always an option, the convenience of the browser is hard to pass up."

ActiveDisclosure 3 advances the ability of privately held, pre-IPO and public companies of all sizes and vertical industries to collaborate on documents and comply with disclosure requirements mandated by the Securities and Exchange Commission and other regulatory agencies. The solution speeds and simplifies the process of creating, managing and submitting the required disclosure documentation.

"This evolution is the result of our continued investment in innovation, along with our Gold Partner relationship with Microsoft," stated Clay. "Ultimately, we believe ActiveDisclosure 3 raises the bar on what clients should expect from their financial reporting solution, in terms of accuracy and efficiency. Early user feedback has been overwhelmingly positive, which validates the power of ActiveDisclosure 3, while further underscoring our relentless commitment to continue to deliver an unrivaled experience to our ActiveDisclosure clients."
